Four Great Reasons To Upgrade Today!

FoxCentral

FoxCentral is our elegant new user interface designed for both first-time and experienced users. Using pull-down and pop-up menus, FoxCentral lets you handle most database options effortlessly—without programming!

Access the power of FoxBASE+ without typing a single command. Databases can be created, opened, examined, modified and maintained using this powerful "control center." In addition, indexes can be created, relations established among databases, filters set, etc.—all without programming!

All of FoxBASE+'s new features—FoxView, FoxCode, FoxDoc and FoxGraph—can be accessed through FoxCentral.

FoxView

FoxView is our new screen design tool. Sophisticated yet easy to use, FoxView helps you create beautiful custom input screens.

FoxView lets you use information from several databases at the same time, import existing format files, even include complete programs in the screen you're creating! Custom screens can also be created with fields from several related databases.

With FoxView, you can create screen displays that improve the aesthetics as well as the clarity of your data entry forms.

FoxCode

FoxCode is our new applications generator, which writes complete, custom FoxBASE+ programs like the one being generated above! FoxCode can generate anything from a simple format (.FMT) file to a complete full-featured application.

FoxCode includes a template language designed to describe FoxBASE+ programs you wish to generate.

Create your own specialized templates, or use one of the many shareware templates included with FoxCode. Some of these templates generate sophisticated systems that include great features like pop-up perpetual calendars and calculators—and you don't need to write a single line of code!

FoxGraph

FoxGraph is an exciting new program that opens up the world of 3-dimensional graphics to FoxBASE+ users! With your upgrade, you'll receive a complete demo package that shows you how to create your own business presentation graphics—in full 3-D perspective—directly from FoxBASE+!

The aim of any graphing system is to clarify numerical relationships by making them visual. And no other program presents numbers with the complete, elegant clarity of FoxGraph. It's simply beautiful and beautifully simple. FoxGraph can create 2-D, 3-D and even stacked 3-D graphics automatically—at the touch of a button! Take advantage of the FoxBASE+ 2.10 Upgrade Offer now, and you'll receive a coupon good for a substantial discount when you purchase the complete FoxGraph package later!

FoxDoc will map the flow of a single program or an entire FoxBASE+ system, producing a complete documentation package based on your specifications. FoxDoc produces many different items of documentation, including:

- A data dictionary showing where all names used in your program are defined, changed or referenced.
 - A tree diagram showing relationships between all modules in your system.
 - A clean re-Indented program listing with proper capitalization for keywords and data variables.
 - Mockups of report and label forms used.
 - Program headers showing programs which call the current program, and the programs it calls in turn.
- ... and much more!
