POWER MACINTOSH SYSTEMS!

Welcome to Power Macintosh!

Apple is committed to making Macintosh computers the most powerful, easiest-to-use computers in the world. Apple's reputation for technological innovation continues with its co-development along with IBM and Motorola of the PowerPC microprocessor. By integrating this powerful, new microprocessor standard with the ease-of-use and advanced features of System 7, Apple has created Power Macintosh computers, a new generation of personal computers.

The future is here...

RISC technology is the foundation of the PowerPC architecture. Previously available only in higher performance workstations, Apple is the first company to take personal computers with RISC.

Powerful software built for speed...

All current software written for Macintosh will work on the Power Macintosh. Many developers have already designed their programs specifically to take advantage of the performance potential of the Power Macintosh.

Power Macintosh 6100/60 8/160

Apple's Power Macintosh™ computers are the next generation of Macintosh™ computers, integrating the performance of the new RISC-based PowerPC™ microprocessor with the ease of use of a Macintosh. Running at a swift 60 MHz, it has a built-in math coprocessor, onboard Ethernet capability, and 16-bit stereo CD quality sound capability. It also has connections for the Apple GeoPort™ Telecom Adapter, to send or receive faxes directly from the computer. This is the most affordable member of the new high performance line of Macintosh computers, delivering the performance that business and education users demand.
